

What is the Music Program?

HCC's Music Program is designed to challenge and inspire excellence and creativity in students as they pursue personal and professional aspirations in music. HCC provides a nurturing, student-centered environment with personalized instruction to meet students at their current skill level, preparing them to transfer to a four-year bachelor's degree program, and beyond. Students develop a strong foundation and comprehensive understanding of music as performers, composers, and/or listeners.

What can I do with a music degree?

A degree in music can serve as a launch pad for numerous career paths within the field of music. In addition to careers as music performers, students often pursue opportunities in one or more of the following:

- Composer
- Public school music teacher
- Private instrument instructor
- Professor in higher education
- Professional sound technician
- Professional sound reinforcement
- Small and large ensemble performer
- Music therapist
- Church music leader
- Accompanist
- Arts manager/agent/administrator
- Music historian
- (Ethno)musicologist
- Music critic

- Bandleader/Conductor
- Music arranger
- Humanities instructor
- Careers in non-music disciplines

What is the employment outlook?

While a degree in music is no guarantee of employment as a fulltime, professional musician, employers may still see a music major as a very attractive applicant. A degree in music, like degrees in many arts and humanities fields, can prepare students for a wide range of career directions outside of the music discipline. Today, more and more technology firms are hiring employees with arts and humanities degrees (rather than technology degrees) due to the need for creative, critical, and empathetic thinkers in the fields of twenty-first-century technology. Why should I study music at HCC?

HCC offers small class sizes and personalized instruction, providing students the opportunity to work closely with their instructors. Skills learned in applied lessons and music theory class can be directly implemented in the context of a number of performing ensembles. The music faculty are experts in their respective fields who have enjoyed lengthy careers as performers, directors, composers, teachers, lecturers, and presenters. All faculty at HCC hold advanced degrees from prestigious university and/or conservatory programs.

HCC's music department offers one-on-one lessons in a variety of instruments and voice, including classical and electrical guitar, electric bass, piano, strings, percussion, woodwinds, and brass. Applied music lessons are open to all levels of musicians, from beginners to advanced players. Additionally, applied music lessons can be taken as elective credits for current students in other programs.

What are the program options?

Students can earn an associate of art degree in music. With the completion of this degree, students will be prepared to transfer into a music program at a four-year college or university. Students who have completed HCC's music classes and program have successfully transferred to the following schools:
