COURSE DESCRIPTION:
Production and Operations Management examines the infrastructure required to bring goods and services to the marketplace and includes the functional areas of supply chain management and its interface with other business and logistics activities. Topics include many aspects of the line and staff functions of production management such as operations in a global environment, project management, forecasting, capacity planning, inventory management, aggregate planning, and outsourcing as a supply chain strategy. Semester offered: Periodically.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES:
Upon completion of this course, the student will be able to:

- Define operations management
- Explain the distinction between goods and services
- Understand the differences between production and productivity
- Compute multifactor productivity
- Identify the critical variables in enhancing productivity
- Complete critical path analysis
- Develop operational strategies to succeed in a global environment
- Analyze a case study and make a recommendation for alternate approaches

Total Hours of Coursework:
To earn one academic credit at HCC, students are required to complete a minimum of 37.5 clock hours (45 fifty-minute “academic” hours) of coursework per semester. Those hours of coursework may be completed through a combination of hours within the classroom and hours outside the classroom. Certain courses may require more than the 37.5 minimum hours of coursework per credit.

For most classes, students should expect to do at least 2 hours of coursework outside of class for each hour of in-class coursework. Total hours of coursework required for TRK 130 equals 159 hours for 3 credits.
