

National Museum of the American Indian

A Cultural Day Trip with Hagerstown Community College

Tuesday, April 23

Join us for a multisensory experience at the Smithsonian's American Indian Museum. This facility houses the world's most diverse collection of its kind. Its collection spans 2000 years and numerous cultures of the Americas.

Designed in collaboration with Native American nations from across the Western Hemisphere, the architecture, landscaping, and exhibits combine to give visitors both the sense and spirit of the Native Americans.

Enroute, Roger Swartz will discuss basic Native American spiritual beliefs, especially from the Northeast. We will learn how these are applied to daily Indian life in the Northeast, including the rites and rituals of warfare, and how they are incorporated into the museum: its outer grounds, its architecture, and its exhibits.

Registration for $99 includes admission, motor coach transportation, and gratuities. Enjoy lunch on your own.

Exhibitions include:

Americans: American Indian Images, Names, and Stories
Infuse American History and Contemporary Life

The Great Inka Road: Engineering an Empire

Nation to Nation: Treaties Between the United States and American Indian Nations

Our Universes: Traditional Knowledge Shapes Our World

Return to a Native Place: Algonquian Peoples of the Chesapeake
