Student Responsibilities

- All written communications from the Student Financial Aid Office will be by e-mail. It is the student's responsibility to inform the office of e-mail address changes and to check their e-mail frequently.
- To maintain eligibility for financial aid, students must maintain Satisfactory Academic Progress. Students should refer to the section: Academic Progress of Students Receiving Student Financial Aid.
- Priority consideration for Federal Work Study and certain other federal programs is given to students who meet the deadlines of March 15 for the fall semester and November 15 for the spring semester.
- Deadline dates for the Federal Pell Grant are less restrictive.
- Once students are enrolled for classes and have been awarded financial aid, their financial aid will be credited to their accounts, paying tuition, fees, and other college expenses first.
- Students are responsible for payment of tuition and fees if aid has not been awarded. To determine if student financial aid can be applied to the semester charges: tuition, fees, and books, review the Financial Aid Status by Term information available on WebAdvisor.
- Students must officially withdraw from classes at the Admissions and Registration Office if they are no longer planning to attend. Failure to comply could result in all tuition and fee charges being billed to the student.
- Students receiving financial aid are expected to attend and complete their classes. Students who receive aid for classes which they never attend will have the aid revoked. Students who withdraw, or stop attending all classes, may owe a refund for aid received to the U.S. Department of Education.
